Architectural & Archaeological Society

Kinneir Tarte papers

Frederick Walter Kinneir Tarte lived and worked in St Albans for around twenty years from the mid-1880s. His skills as an architect were in demand in this fast-developing city and beyond with commissions to produce residential, commercial and school buildings for example. He also involved himself in the life of St Albans serving on the city council for a short time as well as taking leading roles in the activities of this Society and the 1907 pageant. That year he sold up and, for currently obscure reasons, emigrated to Australia.

This extensive collection of papers represents research by John Brodrick, a past-president of the Society, into Kinneir Tarte's contribution to St Albans and resulted in John's essay about him for the Society's publication, A History in all Men's Lives.

The following handlist and commissions list were collated by Diana Penton. The collection is available to view at the Society's Library.
