

Applicants to the St Albans City Military Tribunal, 1916-18

Between January 1916 and October 1918 over 1000 men applied to the St Albans City Military Tribunal seeking to avoid or delay entry into the Army. The following pages list these cases, the material for which has been collated from tribunal records and newspaper reports. This exhaustive work has been carried out to support the Society's project to consider the effects of the tribunal on the social and economic development of St Albans during the war.

Behind each entry is a story. For example, why did the 24 men who applied for exemption as conscientious objectors take such a controversial step? Which family was required by the Tribunal to decide between two sons, one to be exempt the other to join up? Who were the 32 men whose names appear on the City war memorial?

That the tribunal system existed is a surprise to many of us today. Knowledge of how men could avoid or delay leaving hearth and home fills gaps for family historians trying to understand what their ancestors did during the war years. We are keen to hear from their descendants as many will have useful archives of material about these men and their families that may help us with our project. In return we can provide further information about the relevant hearings, often with rich detail about the men's lives.

If you want to get in touch with us please email homefront@stalbanhistory.org or if you want to know more about our project then visit the society's website www.stalbanhistory.org and click on 'Social History'

Please note: while every effort has been made to ensure this list is accurate, please do let us know if you find any mistakes.
